OVER THE DEEP BLUE SEA.

FRANCE REJECTS THE ITALIAN COMMERCIAL TREATY.

Gratification is felt in Germany over the Result—A Farce of a Duel Near Paris. England Protesting Against the Russian Government Closing Batoum.

LONDON, July 19.—Much gratification is felt in Berlin over the rejection by France of the Italian commercial treaty and the great degree of local irritation which will eventually result from the rejection among the people of Nice and the Riviera, is regarded as favorable to the plans of Germany to bring about a rupture between France and Italy. There is good reason to believe that Russian diplomats are treating with the authorities at Berlin with a view of securing the neutrality of Germany in case of war between Russia and Turkey, and retain for Russia neutrality in the event of war between Germany and Italy allied and France.

The election excitement has entirely subsided, even speculation being languid, in view of the foregone conclusion that the Conservatives will form a government. Lord Randolph Churchill has been immensely benefited by his recent rest and will return to London, his friends say, full of fight and resolved to accomplish the exclusion of Sir Richard Assheton Cross, William Henry Smith and the other fossils from the new cabinet. Lord Salisbury will return about the middle of next week.

The petition against the prima facie result of the recent election for the city of London, which has been lodged. The Parnellites have been actively engaged during the past few days, in collecting evidence to support their case, and are confident that they can without difficulty, prove the illegality of scores of the votes cast for the Tory candidate. The petition was drafted by Mr. Timothy M. Healy.

The Duel Farce.

PARIS, July 19.—The duel between Gen. Boulanger, minister of war, and Baron de Lareinty, arising from the remarks of the baron in the senate Thursday, relative to the expulsion of the Duc d'Aumale, was fought at 9 o'clock. The weapons were pistols. The place of meeting was in a forest near Meudon, five miles west of Paris. When the command to fire was given Baron de Lareinty shot at Gen. Boulanger. The latter coolly awaited the result of the shot without firing himself.

Finding himself untouched by his opponent's bullet Gen. Boulanger raised his own pistol and fired up into the air. The combatants then left the field. Gen. Boulanger returned to Paris and went straight to his office at the war department. A large crowd had assembled to learn the result of the duel, and they gave Gen. Boulanger an ovation when he appeared.

From the Elections.

LONDON, July 19.—For the Northern division of Monaghan, Mr. Patrick O'Brien, Parnellite, has been elected, defeating Mr. Leslie, Conservative candidate. The vote stood, O'Brien 3,032, Leslie 2,491.

The results of the parliamentary elections up to 4 p. m. to-day, show no gain for the political party. The Tories have 317, and the Liberals 187.

Lord Arthur W. Hill, Conservative, has been re-elected for the Western division of Dorset, defeating Mr. MacHugh, the Parnellite candidate. The vote stood, Hill 4,830, MacHugh 1,199. In the previous election for that division, Lord Arthur was elected without opposition.

A Crank Wants to Marry the Queen.

LONDON, July 19.—A crank signing himself "James Junior," recently wrote a letter to the queen, couched in the most affectionate terms, offering her majesty his hand in marriage. The epistle of this would-be consort commenced with the words: "My beloved Victoria." The crank called at Windsor castle yesterday for an answer to his proposal, and upon making known his mission, was immediately handed over to the police, who conveyed him to a lunatic asylum, where he now languishes.

Protesting Against Closing Batoum.

The Journal Des Debats publishes a dispatch from its London correspondent, in which he states that Lord Roseberry, the English foreign secretary, has sent the Russian government a precise and emphatic protest against the closing of the port of Batoum. The correspondent adds that Earl Roseberry has presented to Russia that England regards the former's conduct in this respect as a flagrant violation of the Berlin treaty.

The Standard's Comments.

LONDON, July 19.—The Standard, commenting on the political situation, says it believes that if Lord Salisbury assumes the premiership and asks Lord Hartington and his friends to assist in the formation of a ministry, the latter will decline. Both parties will support Sir Robert Peel's re-election to the house of commons.

Painting a Portrait.

BERLIN, July 19.—The Emperor William has approved of the proposal to paint a portrait of the novelist, Gustav Freytag, at the expense of the state, on the ground that the great services rendered by him in his writing will result in mental culture and patriotism.

Paying The Piper.

LONDON, July 19.—The Bulgarian parliament has voted credit for the expenses of the late war with Serbia, and has authorized the government to contract loans for the equipment of the army and for railway purposes.

Congratulating A Would-be Duelist.

PARIS, July 19.—All the members of the cabinet and nearly all the deputies and senators have called on Gen. Boulanger, minister of war, and congratulated him on the outcome of his duel with Baron de Lareinty.

Autograph Confession.

BOSTON, July 19.—In the trial of Timothy Coffey for manslaughter in causing the death of John Cullen, the defense introduced a remarkable autograph confession of John Coffey, the deceased brother of the defendant, avowing that the writer had killed Cullen and that Timothy was wholly innocent. John says that he used his knife in self defense.

GRANTED A PARDON.

A Georgia Convict, in the Penitentiary for Life, is Released.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 19.—George Brown was convicted in 1878 for murder, and sentenced to be hanged. The sentence was afterward commuted to imprisonment for life. Brown was convicted of killing a convict. The sheriff gave him a pistol and told him not to allow the convict to escape. Brown replied that he was not authorized, and the sheriff said: "I authorize you as my deputy to do so." When the prisoner attempted to escape Brown shot and killed him.

He has been serving out his life sentence since 1879, and has maintained a good reputation. He is six feet four inches tall and weighs 330 pounds. He has learned the blacksmith trade since his imprisonment. He not only refused to participate in the recent revolt at the Duane coal mines, but used every effort to induce the mutineers to yield to the authorities. He was the blacksmith who shackled the convicts as they came out, singing out as he finished each one, "bring in another coon." Governor McDaniel has granted him a full pardon.

Broadway Surface Railroad Case.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., July 19.—The Broadway Surface railroad case came up before Judge Landon, in the supreme court chambers. On motion of Attorney General O'Brien, to make permanent the temporary injunction, restraining all other than Receiver John O'Brien from operating the Broadway Surface railroad receiving moneys from it, or bring suit against it, until the winding up of its affairs by the receiver, under the act providing for the winding up of the affairs of corporations, the charters of which have been annulled. The day was consumed in arguments on points of law raised, and on motion for a change of venue from Albany county to New York county. The case will be resumed this evening, but no decision is expected to-day on any of the points raised.

A Boiler Lets Go.

WELLSVILLE, O., July 19.—An upright boiler in the boiler shop of Joseph Fassett, on Second street, let go at 1:30 o'clock with terrific force, wrecking the entire building. Through a miracle none of the employees were injured. Adjoining the boiler house is the residence of Mrs. Maggie Driscoll, whose two little girls, Clara, aged five, and Mary, aged three, were playing in the yard. When the explosion occurred the children were caught and held fast by the falling building, while the scalding steam poured over them. Clara was dead when taken from the ruins, and Mary was terribly scalded and cannot recover. The boiler, weighing a ton, was blown through the roof, and buried in a brickyard 300 feet distant.

A Forger Absconds.

PITTSBURGH, July 19.—Chief Clerk Samuel K. Gay, of the Pittsburgh pension office, has absconded after forging the name of Pension Agent Russell Everett to three checks aggregating $800. The discovery was made yesterday afternoon and information made against Gay, but before the officer could serve the warrant Gay, becoming suspicious, packed his satchel and left the city, presumably taking the nearest route to Canada. After Gay's departure an investigation of the books developed the fact that in addition to the forging he had succeeded in making off with a considerable sum belonging to the government and it is thought that the amount will reach $20,000. Gay was a model young man not addicted to any evil habits so far as known.

A Battle of Bullets.

MR. VERNON, Ky., July 19.—About 6 o'clock last evening Judge G. W. McClure and Lee Carter entered the grocery store owned by Jack and Tom Moore, when a difficulty arose between McClure and Carter on one side and the Moore boys on the other, which ended in a desperate battle with Winchester rifles and revolvers. Jack Moore fell dead, pierced with six bullets. Tom Moore was mortally wounded and McClure was shot twice, but not seriously injured. Carter and McClure have fled the town, and more trouble will likely follow.

Suing Out an Injunction.

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—Counsel for the National Cable company, of New York, filed a bill in equity, in the United States circuit court, against the Philadelphia Traction company, asking to have the latter enjoined from the making of an alleged infringement upon the complainant company's assigned patent for an "improvement in trainways for curves and cable grips." The patent was originally held by Andrew S. Hallide, of San Francisco, and assigned to the complainant company.

A Blind Man Instantly Killed.

PITTSBURGH, July 19.—Fred Zimmer, with his blind brother Anton, a noted local pianist, while crossing the Ft. Wayne railroad track at North avenue, Allegheny City, were struck by an accommodation train. Anton was instantly killed, while Frederick escaped with a few bad bruises. Anton, who has been under treatment by a Philadelphia physician, was in the city on a visit to his home, and had intended returning to Philadelphia in a few days.

Two Young Men Drowned.

MARSHALL, O., July 19.—An excursion, numbering more than 1,000 people, went from Akron to Zoar, a resort fourteen miles south of here. While there three young men of the party went out on the dam in a row boat, and while changing seats the boat upset. Two of the occupants, Benjamin Jussell and Martin Benkey were drowned. Their bodies had not yet been recovered when the boat left for Akron last evening.

A Brutal Brakeman.

WABASH, Ind., July 19.—William Bell, the tramp who was found on the Wabash rail road track, with his legs broken, has died of his injuries. Previous to his decease he stated that he was knocked from a freight train by a brakeman and was run over. An attempt will be made to apprehend the brakeman, although the evidence against him is slight.

Oatmeal Mills Burned.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, July 19.—Fire broke out in the Dubuque company's oatmeal mills, which in a few minutes was reduced to ashes. The fire is supposed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion among flour dust. Loss $100,000; insurance $46,000.

EXTRADITION TREATY.

A DOCUMENT TO TAKE THE PLACE OF THE TREATY OF 1842.

Four Crimes are Added to Those Already on the Extraditable List, the Principal One of Which is to Punish Dynamiters and Socialists—Its Object.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The Tribune's Washington special says: An extradition treaty between the United States and Great Britain was signed in London June 25 by Minister Phelps and Earl Roseberry. It was sent by the president to the senate on July 8, with a message advising its ratification. The foreign affairs committee, to which it was promptly referred, had not acted upon it as yet, but there can be no doubt that it will be favorably reported to and ratified by the senate. The new treaty is supplementary to that of 1842, which was signed in Washington by Daniel Webster as secretary of state, and Lord Ashburton, minister plenipotentiary of Great Britain.

It continues in force the provisions of article ten of that treaty, which deals entirely with the question of the extradition of criminals, and includes among the crimes made extraditable murder, assault with intent to commit murder, piracy, arson, robbery, forgery, and the utterance of forged paper. To these crimes the new treaty adds four others, manslaughter, burglary, embezzlement, or larceny, involving the amount of $50 or $100 or upward, and finally malicious destruction of property, which endangers the life of others, and which in either country is made a crime by law.

This last provision, of course, is meant to cover the crimes of which the dynamiters and Socialists are guilty. Practically negotiations for a new and more satisfactory extradition treaty than that of 1842 have been going on for more than nine years. They date from the time that Mr. Fish was secretary of state under President Grant. From the correspondence already referred to, it appears that the treaty, if ratified, will be followed soon after by a new and more comprehensive one. In this respect the present treaty is to be regarded as a temporary measure only, designated to check, to some extent, the emigration to Canada and the irregularities of Socialists and dynamiters.

An Almost Empty Treasury.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—An interesting story is told of an interview at the treasury between Mr. Randall and Mr. Fairchild. On Wednesday afternoon, just before the passage of the Morrison resolution, Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, sent to Acting Secretary Fairchild the following dispatch:

"Hon. C. S. Fairchild, Acting Secretary of the Treasury:

"If balance of $75,000,000, as shown by treasurer's report of June 30 last, should be used to pay bonds, what would the treasury have left for working balance besides fractional silver coin? An immediate answer would oblige."

The secretary wrote in an answer precisely what he believed, as follows:

"TREASURY DEPARTMENT, July 14.

"The Hon. William McKimley, Jr., House of Representatives:

"In reply to your telegram of this date asking what the treasury would have left for working balance, besides the fractional silver coin of the balance of $75,000,000, as shown by the treasurer's report of June 30 last, should be used in paying bonds, I beg to state that nothing would be left but trust funds, which it would be dishonorable and dishonest to use for that purpose."

"C. S. FAIRCHILD,
"Acting Secretary."

Mr. Randall objected to the dispatch as unparliamentary, and suggested that it struck Mr. Morrison just as it did him. Mr. Fairchild expressed regret that he should have failed to put his reply in language courteous to the house, and his willingness to have the language changed in any way so long as the sense of the dispatch was preserved. Then, questioning Mr. Randall, he desired to know whether he and Mr. Morrison were prepared to assert whether it was honorable or honest to use trust funds for other purposes than those to which they had been devoted. Mr. Randall was not prepared to assert that trust funds could be honorably diverted.

Grave Charges.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Upon evidence presented by J. W. Silver, consul at Cap-Town, South Africa, Secretary Whitney has ordered the commanding officers and pay masters of the Lancaster and Junetta to return home. It is charged that there has been collusion between the paymasters of the several vessels and dealers from whom supplies were purchased, by which the government was caused to pay extortionate prices, and a handsome percentage of the overcharge was received by the paymasters. It is said a navy department that the commanding officers will be court-martialed for negligence in approving bills for these excessive amounts.

Objected to the Measure.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—When the house had under consideration a joint resolution providing that portmen employees of the government should be allowed pay for Decoration Day, Mr. Holman proposed that they be paid also for the 4th of July, and that was agreed to. Mr. Lawler said that St. Patrick's day ought also to be included. The house laughed and applauded Lawler's suggestion, but Bingham ridiculed it and Broome, another Pennsylvania man, defeated the proposition by an objection.

The Payne Case.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Unless an arrangement agreed upon to-day is set aside, the Payne reports will be called up in the senate on Tuesday next. A long and exciting debate, partaking of many personalities, is expected. The correspondent is informed that Mr. Payne will read a statement, in which he will say that he is guiltless, and that he has no opportunity to prove it, otherwise there would have been no occasion for the reports.

LANSING, Mich., July 17.—In the somewhat celebrated case of the people vs. Charles W. Fonda, twice convicted of embezzling funds of the Constantine National bank, the supreme court held that upon the record the court below had no jurisdiction, and ordered Fonda's release from prison.

SHOT HIS FATHER.

A Son's Lamentful Deed in Defending His Mother.

CINCINNATI, July 19.—Henry Breademeyer, living on Twelfth street, between Bullock and Edward streets, Covington, has been drinking very hard during the past several weeks, and during that time was very abusive to his family. About 7 o'clock at night he went to the house and demanded a hammer with which to tear down the fence. His wife and daughters remonstrated with him, and endeavored to quiet him, but without avail, as he procured the hammer and commenced the work of demolishing the fence in the rear of the house.

Upon his wife begging him to stop, he turned angrily toward her and threw the hammer at her head, fortunately missing her. Just then the son Henry, a young man, eighteen years of age, came home from work, and when the father again attempted to strike his wife, the son picked up a piece of brick and threw it at his father, striking him on the left side of the head, knocking him on the ground insensible.

He was carried to his room and put to bed, where he died about an hour afterwards. The son gave himself up and was placed in jail. He says that his father has frequently mistreated and abused his mother, and the entire family was often compelled to leave the house for fear they would be killed.

His statement is verified by the neighbors, who give the older Breademeyer a very hard name, and say that his abuse of his wife and were of frequent occurrence. A post mortem examination will be held by Doctors Wallingford and J. T. Wise.

Charges of Corruption and Bribery.

ST. LOUIS, July 19.—The grand jury last evening concluded an investigation of charges of corruption, bribery and drunkenness against various members of the lower house of the city council, and issued bench warrants, which, however, were not placed in the hands of the sheriff until this morning. Warrants against Delegates Keenan and Fishon are on the charge of bribery. Included with them is a warrant for Ben. Brady, an employee of the Surveyor of the Port Lancaster, upon the same charge. Dr. Wellington Adams and his attorney, Charles A. Davis, are charged with attempted bribery in connection with the electric elevated railroad bill. Charges of drunkenness in office were preferred against Delegates Waters, Brueggemann, Gartenbach and Fishon, and warrants issued for their arrest. Grand jurors stated that they were about to indict all of the persons named, and wanted to prevent their escape.

A Postmaster's Shortage.

KANSAS CITY, July 19.—United States Commissioner Perkins had before him E. N. Wyatt, who not many months ago was appointed postmaster of Austin, Kan. The charge against him is that he applied to his own use the sum of $489 belonging to the government. His shortage was discovered in an investigation of the postoffice by Postmaster Inspector Nelson. Wyatt was suspended, and his bondsmen were called on to make the deficit good, and did so, but Wyatt was arrested, and having waived examination was held under $1,000 bail to appear for trial in October.

Restoring Passenger Rates.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The managers of the lines belonging to the Missouri River Passenger association met and resolved that all passenger rates should be restored on Tuesday next between Chicago and St. Louis, St. Louis and Missouri river points, including Council Bluffs, and between all Missouri river points and Minneapolis and St. Paul, to be maintained until September 15. They agreed that before that date would form a money pool covering all business in the west, southwest and northwest. A committee was appointed to perfect the details.

Breaking Up a Gang of Burglars.

WABASH, Ind., July 19.—A dangerous gang of burglars who have been working in organized raids on stores in Warsaw, Plymouth, Syracuse and other Indiana towns, has been broken up by the arrest of the entire party. Their depredations have caused a total loss of thousands of dollars to business men, the plunder being shipped to Chicago and sold. In default of bail all were lodged in jail at Warsaw. The band have been operating for two years.

Curted Darling Steals Chickens.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., July 19.—Warren H. Withers, son of the late distinguished judge of the Allen county criminal court, was arrested by police officers last night on a charge of stealing chickens. He was committed this morning for trial in the circuit court, and is now in jail. When arrested he had over his shoulder a bag containing six stolen fowls. He has confessed to enough thefts to insure a penitentiary sentence. His people move in the best society.

Wrecked Another Bank.

OMAHA, Neb., July 19.—Cashier Beltser, who wrecked the Dundie county bank at Beakleman, has also wrecked the Chase county bank at Imperial, of which he was president. Chase is the youngest county in the state, and the bank of which the fugitive was president has been in operation only a short time. Its patrons were housekeepers and ranchmen who will lose about $25,000. The assets of the bank will not exceed $3,000.

Compromise Among the Quarmen.

LEWISTON, Ill., July 19.—The strike of quarmen has been ended by a compromise under which the married men get the advance of twenty five cents a day demanded May 1, the single ones to remain at the former figures. A majority of the men have returned to work, and the others will be at their old places on Monday.

Suddenly Died.

CINCINNATI, July 19.—William Harding, the well known restaurant keeper, died at an early hour this morning at his home in Cleves, of softening of the brain. For years he had managed the eating house on Sixth street, near Central avenue, and he was very well known. He was a partner of the late Mr. Spraul.

A Rumor Denied.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Col. Fred A. Grant denies the story of his mother having undergone an operation for a tumor. She is in her usual good health, at Long Branch.
